

JANUARY EVENT

The next Little Rhody Division event is scheduled for Saturday, January 18 at Middletown Public Library, 700 West Main Rd, Middletown, RI 02842. Spouses and guests are always welcome. And, in this case, library patrons.

We will begin with socializing at 9:30 AM, followed by information sharing and a short business meeting at about 10 AM. Plus, as always, we will share ASK A QUESTION/SOLVE A PROBLEM, a forum for our in-house experts to answer your questions and solve your nagging model railroad problems.

No White Elephant Table this month.

Operating Layout - Rhode Island and Old Colony T-TRAK N-Scale

Little Rhody Division (LRD) members will assemble their T-TRAK modules for the enjoyment of LRD members and library patrons. Following a brief business meeting, the layout will be opened to the public.

The N-scale Rhode Island & Old Colony Railroad loosely represents the railroad line in coastal Rhode Island and nearby Massachusetts during the 1950s and 1960s. More information is available on Facebook at Little Rhody N Trak.

Members planning to bring modules should contact David Dekonski (xxxx@aol.com) in advance. Only modules with scenery, please. Members with modules should plan to arrive at early for set-up.

G-scale Layout

David Kiley's G-scale layout will also be on display for the public to view.

FUTURE EVENTS

February

Saturday, February 1st at the United Methodist Church in East Greenwich. Our panel of experts, consisting of Little Rhody members, Steve Erickson, Justin Maguire, MMR, and Rick Sisson, will discuss "Everything You Wanted to Know About Glue and Were Afraid to Ask".

March

Saturday, March 7th at the United Methodist Church in East Greenwich. Two presentations are planned. Greg Pion, Past Superintendent of LRD, will display Little Rhody Division club cars and reminisce about LRD's past. And, Little Rhody member DK Paul will discuss circuit printing.

As always, please contact me with any questions or issues.
